National Endoscopy Database

Committee terms of reference

Introduction
The National Endoscopy Database (NED) is a joint initiative between Joint Advisory Group on gastrointestinal endoscopy (JAG), British Society of Gastroenterology (BSG), Association of Upper Gastrointestinal Surgeons (AUGIS) and Association of Coloproctology of Great Britain and Ireland (ACPGBI), owned and hosted by the Royal College of Physicians (RCP). The aim is to pool data from each hospital’s endoscopy reporting system (ERS) to a single national database, to facilitate quality assurance, benchmarking, service evaluation and research.

Role and duties
The core duties of the NED committee are:-

- Design, deliver and maintain NED.
- Coordinate input from the IT team, JAG Endoscopy Training System (JETS) team, ERS manufacturers and supporting organisations.
- Ensure information governance requirements are met.
- Support individual trusts/organisations implementing NED.
- Oversee validation of data quality and completeness in NED.
- Develop and deliver the user interface to allow endoscopists, trust / organisation leads and JAG to access performance data.
- Liaise with representative bodies to define and present appropriate key performance indicators (KPIs) aligned with national standards.
- Define and update the mandatory and non-mandatory data schema to be uploaded for each procedure.
- Provide ERS manufacturers with data schema modification and data requirement changes on an annual basis.
- Ensure that there is UK-wide engagement with the NED project.
- Review and manage risks related to the NED project and to escalate risks appropriately to the JAG Committee and other appropriate organisations.
- Review and learn from issues, complaints and feedback. An issues log will be presented regularly at NED committee meetings.
- Ensure provision of data from NED for quality assurance purposes is appropriate, accurate and data use is aligned with national policy, priorities and agenda.
- Work closely with JAG Research group to support the overseeing of applications requesting NED data.

For the avoidance of doubt, the NED committee is not responsible for line management of staff, responsibility of which lies with the RCP. The NED committee does not have executive power and financial decisions will ultimately rest with the RCP.
